

Germany Proposes to Borrow 30 Billion Marks in Markets Of World to Pay Reparations

By This Means Obligations Would Be Liquidated by 1931, According to Proposals Sent to Entente and U. S. and Setting 30 Billions in Gold as Limit of Ability to Pay.

FLAT REFUSAL BY FRENCH GOVERNMENT FORECAST

BERLIN, May 2.—Germany's latest reparations offer proposes that the sum total of her obligations in cash and kind under the Versailles Treaty be fixed at 30,000,000,000 gold marks.

The German government, in a note made public today, simultaneously with its receipt by the Entente and Washington governments, proposes that 20,000,000,000 of the total be raised before July 1, 1927, by a bond issue at normal rates of interest on the international money market. Five billions would be raised before July, 1929 in the same manner and the remaining sum similarly before July 1, 1931.

The note asserts that Germany, in accordance with existing treaties, will also make payments in kind which are to be credited to her account. The note expresses conviction that the new proposals represent the utmost limit of Germany's capacity to pay and stresses grave doubt as to whether the offer does not exceed her ability in view of the heavy dislocation and weakening of the Reich economic organization, caused by the Ruhr occupation.

In case the creditor governments do not share Germany's belief that no unprejudiced party could arrive at a higher estimate, in view of her general condition, the Berlin government proposes that the whole reparations question be left to the decision of an international commission free from political influence as suggested by Secretary Hughes.

The note asserts Germany is making her offer without desisting from her program of passive resistance, which will be continued until the area occupied in excess of the stipulations of the Versailles Treaty are evacuated and until conditions on the Rhine are restored according to the terms of the Rhineland agreement.

PARIS, May 2.—The new German proposition for a reparations settlement is so far from acceptable to France that a flat rejection of them is regarded by persons close to Premier Poincaré as inevitable. This rejection, it is stated, will probably be followed by an extension of the occupation the right bank of the Rhine.

NEW ORLEANS, May 2.—Development by Germany of an export trade of $2,000,000,000 annually could result in a substantial amount being used in her payment of reparations, it was declared in a report on European conditions submitted by a committee to the National Foreign Trade convention today.

BERLIN, May 2.—Germany, in her reparations proposals, submitted today, advances a proposition that security be given by France and Germany by an agreement to submit any future conflicts to arbitration or other conciliatory process.

LONDON, May 2.—It was authoritatively stated here this afternoon that the British government has been at some pains to make clear that Great Britain is in no way connected with the German reparations note and that she has had no part in its framing or its terms as had been suggested in certain quarters.

Tuberculosis Cure Claimed By New Method

By Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—Cure of pulmonary tuberculosis by the use of pure carbon and calcium was being discussed by Pittsburgh physicians today as the result of an address before the Westmoreland County Medical Society by William P. Nolan of Jeannette, last night.

Dr. Nolan, who served at Base Hospital 65 at Brest, France, during the war, declared to a large body of physicians assembled at Greensburg that the cure was possible through the "inhalation of practically pure carbon in morphine form and calcium in the form of carbonates, phosphates, chlorides and lactates."

Seventy-two cases, most of them far advanced, he said, had responded to the treatment and at present he was treating two in the same manner.

Dr. Nolan, who has been investigating the subject for 10 years, said he had been assisted in reaching his conclusions by Dr. Oskar Klotz of the Rockefeller Foundation.

"I don't want to be too optimistic," said Dr. Nolan, discussing his address, "but I feel that the situation relating to tuberculosis is such that we must do something for the patient other than give him good food and fresh air."

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Respiratory diseases, notably tuberculosis and influenza have been checked and the possibility of their cure has apparently been demonstrated by the moderate use of poison gases developed during the war, according to experts of the chemical warfare service. Even progress has yielded to some extent to such treatment.

WESTINGHOUSE IS GIVEN 15 MILLION RAILWAY CONTRACT

Will Electrify 215 Miles of Virginian; Supply All Motive Power

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—In order to increase its traffic capacity and to secure important operating economies, the Virginian Railway has decided to electrify 215 miles of its track lying between Roanoke, Va., and Mullins, Va. This undertaking will involve the expenditure of $15,000,000. The order for the electric locomotives, power house, transformer stations, and other apparatus has been awarded to the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company of East Pittsburgh and forms the largest railroad electrification contract ever placed.

"The Virginian is a recognized leader of American railways as regards heavy tonnage operation, and this undertaking will be epochal in the history of American railroads," said Frank H. Shepard, director of heavy traction for the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Company.

"Built by the late Henry H. Kizers in accordance with the most modern engineering practice, it has been renowned for the excellence of its trains and its low ton-mile costs, ever since it started operations in 1909. The Virginian Railway has always been the chief exponent of mass transportation, that is the handling of traffic by means of the largest and heaviest trains, instead of by means of an equivalent number of small trains. As a matter of consistent policy the Virginian's management has regularly increased the size of the trains with every improvement in railroad equipment, until today this railroad is operating the heaviest trains in the world and hauling them by the most powerful of steam locomotives."

"With its present equipment, the Virginian is moving 7,000,000 tons of coal per annum, but this is not enough to take care of the growing demands of the area served. To obtain additional capacity by still further increasing the size of the trains is no longer possible with steam operation, for the simple reason that the limit in the power of the steam locomotive has been reached. Hence, after a thorough study, it has been decided to electrify with the alternating current system this mountain grade division, which represents the 'neck-of-the-bottle' of the railroad."

The chief advantage of electric operation is the greater power that can be applied to each train. The largest steam locomotives now in use on the Virginian are the articulated mallet type, with 20 driving wheels and four cylinders. Three of these huge engines are used to move 5500-ton trains over the grades, but their combined power does not exceed 7,000 horsepower.

The new electric locomotives, however, developing 30,000 horsepower per train, will haul 9,000-ton trains up the grades at the rate of 11 miles per hour, and it will be entirely practical in the future to further increase this power so that 12,000-ton trains can be handled at the same speed."

CAR SUPPLY CONDITION DISCUSSED AT KIWANIS LUNCH BY SUPT. BROWN

There was a big attendance at the Kiwanis Club luncheon today when Supt. Brown, superintendent of the Conlontown division of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad spoke on car supply conditions. He talked of the car shortage and how it came about and what his railroad company is doing to alleviate it.

The Baltimore & Ohio, he said, intends to spend nearly millions of dollars for rolling stock, of which forty millions has already been contracted for. The railroad is doing everything possible to better the car supply situation, he declared. He said the road owned 101,000 cars, of which 55,000 were open top. The cars, in line, would make a string practically 800 miles long.

He remarked that at present for every dollar invested in the railroad there was $1.12 in value. He said there was the likelihood of some adverse legislation and that the fate of the railroad depended upon the attitude of the public.

There were 55 members and seven guests present. Alex Hood was the attendance prize. The silent auction was given by Homer D. Whip. Friday evening the Greensburg Kiwanis bowlers will be here for a return match with the local rollers.

SCOTSDALE, May 2.—Plant A of the United States Cast Iron Pipe & Foundry Company here was destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning.

One hundred twenty-five men were thrown out of employment, according to General Superintendent J. E. Flinnman. No accurate estimate of the loss was obtainable, but it was said to have been between $10,000 and $25,000.

The fire was discovered about 5:30 o'clock and burned rapidly, the building soon being a complete wreck.

Superintendent Flinnman indicated that immediate plans would be taken to rebuild and that as soon as the debris could be sufficiently men would be put to work cleaning up. It was said that resumption would not be delayed many days.

BEWARE OF THE "JUST-AS-GOOD" MERCHANT

WHEN you ask for a can of Del Monte Peaches, or other well-known brand of merchandise, you have a reason for wanting just that brand and nothing else.

In some chain-stores, however, the clerk tries to "switch" you to "our-own-make-just-as-good." This is not fair merchandising—turn him down hard.

Every reputable manufacturer has second and third grades that he must dispose of. For instance, every canner has a second grade put up under another name—it is never sold under the first grade brand. Only the finest grades go under this brand.

But the third grade is not marketed through regular channels by the manufacturer at all—it is put up under contract for private distributors who sell it on an "Our-own-make-just-as-good" basis. The manufacturer sells it at a big discount to get rid of it, though the jobber or grocery store selling it represents it as being "just as good" as the first grade.

Keystone Stores sell only nationally known merchandise of a first grade. Compare the merchandise on Keystone shelves with that of other chain stores or independent grocers who handle jobber's private brands—and you will realize the truth of this statement.

You will see the following brands on Keystone shelves: Heinz, Del Monte, Argo, Kellogg's, P. & G., Ivory, Fels Naphtha, Nabisco, Lux, as well as many others that are household words.

Your saving is two-fold at Keystone. Not only do you save from 15% to 35% in price, but you get the very finest quality we can obtain for you.

The Purpose of Every Keystone Store

Keystone Grocery Stores are clean, cheerful, pleasant places in which to buy, supplying the finest nationally known standard groceries and foodstuffs at prices from 15% to 35% less than the old-fashioned independent grocer. This is done by buying in cash lots direct from the sources of supply, thus eliminating all middle profits. Buy everything at Keystone Stores and bank the difference.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

It's Easy—If You Know Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel, are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and cleaning the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c and 30c.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, MAY 2, 1923.

AN INCONSISTENT DECISION.
The decision of the United States Supreme Court, holding that the United States has absolute jurisdiction within the territorial limits including a distance of three miles from the shore line, when considered in connection with the companion decision setting aside the regulation forbidding the serving of liquor on ships of American registry, creates in the public mind the impression that the court at last has seen the light and is no longer a blind alley. It is a growing sentiment in some quarters favoring a restriction of some kind being placed upon the power of the Supreme Court. To the lay mind it is almost inconceivable that if a vessel flying the Stars and Stripes is always and everywhere under the jurisdiction of the United States with respect to its crew, passengers, cargo and trading, that it is not also subject to the same regulations which apply to all vessels in the home land. No matter where an American vessel may go it can, and in all emergencies does, claim protection of the United States. This makes pertinent the question to which the court's decision gives no answer that is satisfactory to the public. How can a ship leave the prohibition regulations behind when it passes the imaginary three-mile limit and still reasonably claim protection to which it would be entitled in home waters? Upon this point the public is sensibly disappointed by the decision because of its inability to see that degree of consistency reasonably to be expected in the findings of the highest court whose function it is to give final interpretation to our laws. Concerning the decision with respect to the authority of the United States over vessels in American waters there is no such disappointment, except among that element in our population which is in league with the rum runners of other nations who defiantly carry their traffic to the three-mile limit and turn their contraband over to bands of criminals for clandestine delivery on shore. By this decision our government has every legal right to establish such regulations and to take such steps as may be necessary to prevent vessels flying the flag of any nation bringing liquor into our ports. In this respect American and foreign vessels while in our ports are on precisely the same level as far as the government is concerned. The decision will give larger powers to the enforcement officers but it is likely to be resisted by vessels of foreign registry whose governments hold, as our government has held until the Supreme Court decided differently, that vessels flying their flag in every where and at all times under the same jurisdiction they would be in their home ports. By the surrender of this principle of jurisdiction, which has been recognized ever since the first vessel hoisted the American flag, masters of our ships in foreign waters have no alternative but to submit to such objectionable acts as foreign governments may now fit to commit.

Fisherman C. B. Franklin can now qualify as Abe Martin's kind of a philosopher—a man who is surprised by catching a fish he did not expect instead of being disappointed by not catching one he expected to get.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Working by the Clock.

My children were taught very early to tell time. I bought them a very attractive clock and encouraged them to consult it frequently. They learned to do tasks by the clock and to appropriate their time. When they were old enough to start to school it was easy for them to learn just how much time they needed to spend getting ready. Their little clock had made promptness a habit with them.

Glenwood

Makes Cooking Easy

"I never knew I was such a good cook"

AND I'll have to give most of the credit to our new Glenwood range, it certainly has made a difference in my cooking. I'm spending less time in the kitchen, too.

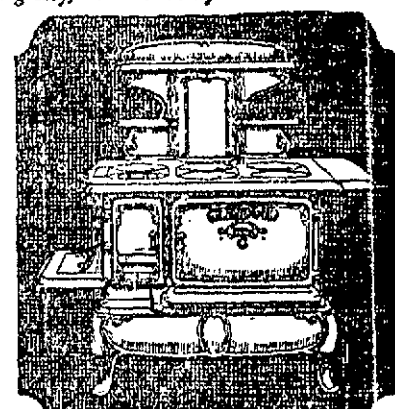

"It's a relief to have a range that doesn't need to be coaxed to cook."

A Glenwood comes as near to making cooking a pleasure as any range can. It does make cooking easy, which is really more important.

The Model "C" Glenwood is illustrated here.

Its big square oven bakes food exactly right—top, bottom and clear through. The balanced baking damper and the Glenwood Patent Indicator take care of that—you can't make a mistake.

Like every Glenwood, the Model "C" is built for a lifetime of service. It will give you a new idea of how easy it is to be a good cook.

PRISON FOR WOMEN WHO FAIL TO PAY TAXES IS ADOPTED

Measure Now Up to Governor Pinchot for Approval or Disapproval.

IT TRAVELS ROCKY ROAD

HAIRISBURG, May 2.—If the governor approves, women of Pennsylvania may be placed in jail for the non-payment of taxes. The legislation to make this possible was passed in the Senate Monday by a vote of 29 to 11. As the measure has gone through the House it will be sent to the executive for his action.

The bill was introduced by Representative William J. Morris of Lawrence. Under the act of 1831, women, infants and persons of unsound mind cannot be imprisoned for the non-payment of taxes. The measure eliminates women from the old law.

The legislation has the support of the various women organizations. The argument advanced is that as families now have the right of suffrage, they do not want special privileges, and also that the removal of the protection will increase the number of women voters. Many that now refrain from voting, because they do not want to pay taxes or cannot get the money for the payment from their husbands or brothers, are expected to see that they are qualified to participate in election rather than face the alternative of going to jail. Another reason for the bill is that many school boards are finding they cannot enforce the section of the school code which permits the levying of a head tax.

COAL TIPPLE FALLS FIFTY FEET INTO CREEK AT HUNKER

HUNKER, May 2.—One man narrowly escaped death or serious injury Saturday morning when part of the tipple of the Fulton Coal Company, located here, dropped 50 feet into the creek below, carrying with it Jim Smartnik, brakeman, and 14 pit cars loaded with coal. Smartnik, beyond a few minor bruises, was uninjured.

The fact that the part of the tipple on which the cars were being hauled gave way, probably saved Smartnik from serious injury as he was caught between two cars when the break occurred.

Five other men who ordinarily are on the tipple, had just gone into the mine house, near the mouth of the mine, to get their clothing dry when the tipple fell.

The company is now erecting an all-steel bridge. This will be completed in about three weeks. It is estimated in the meantime between 75 and 100 men are thrown out of work as the result of the break.

Miners have been drawing from $125 to $200 every two weeks in the mine and the loss to the workers, therefore, will be considerable.

The company is working every hour rushing the work through to completion. It is said the concern has a contract to supply eight car loads of coal every day for a year and the breakdown also means a considerable loss to it.

Lieut. Rhodes Arrives in Airplane to Visit Mother at Somerset

SOMERSET, May 2.—Lieutenant Eugene (Shook) Rhodes, a Somerset boy who has been in the government service for the past nine years, arrived at Somerset Sunday in the government combat plane "Vought." Lieutenant Rhodes was accompanied by Charles Litsey of Cleveland, Ohio. They will visit Lieutenant Rhodes' mother, Mrs. Emma Rhodes. The flyers came direct from Frostburg, where they were obliged to land Saturday afternoon on account of a heavy rain and fog. The trip to Somerset Sunday from Frostburg was made in 20 minutes.

Lieutenant Rhodes was a pilot of the NC-4 on its trans-Atlantic flight. Recently he was in an airplane wreck 26 miles from land, but escaped injury.

Smithfield

SMITHFIELD, May 2.—The little son of Mrs. Moore is confined to his home with scarlet fever.

the Baltimore & Ohio, by an air brake striking him on the jaw and dislocating it is able to be out.

John Fields of Highland Addition is building an addition to his residence. Mrs. Sarah J. Ewing, probably one of the oldest women, who is making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Jasper King, is afflicted badly with a large tumor on her neck.

George Dunn, who had been spending the winter at Punta Gorda, Fla., has returned.

Several of the small coal works have closed. The Baxter Ridge works is among them.

The Hunsell Coke Company's plant is running full. The old Boyd plant is making good time.

Hill Lent itself to building. A most interesting and picturesque series of additions was added to a home in one of the hillside districts of California. In this case a man and his wife had built quite close to the slope of a hill, but without any thought of additions. Later when they wished to expand, they discovered that by good luck rather than by good design, the extent as well as the most attractive direction in which to grow was up the hill. By adding a short enclosed stairway they were lifted high enough to build three most charming rooms. The center one of this group is a living room and in the middle of it, at the back, rises, seemingly out of the ground, a fine sturdy stone chimney with a splendid fireplace.

Accidental Discovery Valuable. Just now our engineering foundation is telling how the forest products laboratory of the Department of Agriculture accidentally stumbled upon the answer to a question it had been working on for a long time. An experimenter spilled a bronze liquid on a kitchen table top. It dried before he could procure a cloth to wipe it up. Here was a clue. What was wanted was a method for waterproofing wood on blocks for mounting electrotypes.

All hands wrought upon the hint accident had yielded. Soon they learned that a "bronze liquid of the glass oil type containing aluminum" would dry quickly and was highly protective when used indoors.

Foster-Child of United States. Col. Hugh Mercer, youngest son of Gen. Hugh Mercer of Revolutionary war fame, was the only foster-child the American people ever had. April 6, 1777, the Continental Congress resolved to erect an appropriate monument to his father, and to educate the boy from that time at the expense of the United States, says the Detroit News.

The monument was never erected, but the promises to the living were faithfully performed.

The boy was only five months old when the hero fell in battle at Palmyra.

At the Theatres

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE FLAMING HOUR," with Frank Mayo in the leading role, is the feature picture today and tomorrow at this theatre. The story is full of thrills and action of the sort that will please nearly every class of fan, with a romantic love interest threaded through the plot, but at the same time it presents a picture of the effects of ill-temper on one's relations in business, society associations and marriage. Frank Mayo, a Universal star of long standing, plays the role of the husband with the skill one would expect from his years of trouping. Helen Ferguson is cast opposite him. Charles Gray, Tom Connolly, Melburne McDowell and Albert McQuarrie handle principal supporting roles. Edward Sedgwick, director of several Universal successes, directed. One reason for the unusual dramatic quality is the authorship—Lillian and George Randolph Chester. The celebrated American novelist prepared the screen continuity of his wife's story. Friday and Saturday "Out of the Dust" will be shown.

THE SOISSON.

"CAN A WOMAN LOVE TWICE?"—The feature picture today at this theatre is from the story "The Greater Glory." Rhel Clayton appears in the stellar role.

Mrs. Clayton is known as one of the really "feminine" stars of the screen. She is perhaps the most representative of American womanhood of all the screen actresses, and in her entire career has never appeared in a questionable or suggestive picture. Besides her many personal charms, this is counted as one factor which has increased her popularity so rapidly.

In "Can a Woman Love Twice?", which is her second production for the Film Booking Office of America, Mrs. Clayton is given an intensely dramatic and human role. The story is laid in the day immediately following the signing of the Armistice and is described as a post-war story with an admirable blend of romance, drama and comedy. As the title suggests, it deals with the problem of a young widow who finds love stealing into her heart for the second time. The picture has been lavishly produced and an excellent cast of players surrounds the star, notable among whom is Malcolm McGregor, who plays the leading male role.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Wesley Barry will be seen in "School Days."

THE ORPHEUM.

"BACK HOME AND BROKE," showing today at this theatre, presents Thomas Meighan, the popular Paramount actor in the leading role. Thomas Meighan, perhaps the most popular actor of the screen today, has a delightful role in his new picture.

This new Meighan vehicle, written especially for the star by George Ade, the humorist, plays upon the heart strings with an effect such as only a student of human nature like Mr. Ade could secure. Having for its theme the story of a young man who left home to find success in the west, Mr. Ade has not only vested it with human interest and humor, but he has given the story a novel twist. Usually the youth either returns home broke or not at all. One might judge from the title that the hero in this story came home broke, but there's where the surprise comes in. The picture, directed by Alfred Green, has a clever supporting cast, and is well presented. Lila Lee, one of the screen's best actresses, is Mr. Meighan's leading woman. The cast includes Charles Abbe, Florence Dixon, Frederick Burton, Eddie Borden and other notable screen players.

THE ORPHEUM.

Tomorrow at the Orpheum Theatre, Byron G. Harlan the singing comedian, known wherever phonograph records are played, starts his three days' engagement in this city. Mr. Harlan with his pleasing personality and superior voice affords the greatest pleasure by his unique character songs, impersonations and chatter. He brings with him his own company of talented performers, including Miss Mabel H. Loomis, soprano, who renders a number of delightful vocal selections, Miss Beth Hamilton, an American violinist who always arouses enthusiasm from both critics and audiences. Her training has been with eminent masters of Europe and America. The versatile Armstrong "the man of mystery" with illusions, magic and mystifying facts that are weird and baffling. The fact that Mr. Harlan engaged his associates with a view of giving a novelty program suitable for all classes is proof positive that their entertainment will be well received in this city. The local interest shown in the making of post records on the stage is manifested in the many applications received by the local management showing conclusively that hearing themselves sing, is as great a thrill to a soloist as seeing oneself in the movies is to most of us. This novelty alone will be of special interest to all friends and acquaintances of the ones who will cooperate with Mr. Harlan. A perfectly good check—good for its face value of $1 will be given for every admission ticket purchased for the novelty show at the Orpheum during the three days. "Every ticket bought will carry with it our check for one dollar," said Manager P. Mikalaris. "If a thousand of the patrons on the first day like the show so much they want to see it again, they will get a new check for one dollar when they come back the next time—and the next. There is no limit on how many times a patron will want to see this novelty show and absolutely no limit on how many dollar checks we will give away. It's expensive publicity but we might as well make it a howling success as a half-way proposition."

Adelaide Lady Well After Five Years of Sickness

DRECO RELIEVES STOMACH AND LIVER TROUBLE

NOW WANTS EVERYONE TO TAKE DRECO.

To be sick for 5 or 6 years, suffering the agonies of a sick stomach and bad liver is something no man or woman desires.

Mrs. Dora Bassinger of Adelaide endured such suffering for more than five years. She became nervous, she could not sleep, and to cut and suffer from gastritis. Her system was completely run down when she started taking DRECO.

"Soon after I got the first bottle of DRECO, I began to feel better," says Mrs. Bassinger.

"During the years that I suffered I tried all kinds of medicines, but my condition showed no improvement."

"I had given up hope when I was persuaded to take DRECO."

"I have now taken two bottles and feel like a new person. All my pains and troubles have disappeared."

Everyone should take DRECO. It is a certain means to health.

The old fashioned remedies made from roots and herbs, are the best for any one to take. DRECO is made from twelve different roots, herbs, barks and leaves. These act on the stomach, bowels and kidneys and purify the blood. DRECO knocks rheumatism out shortly, relieves catarrh of the head and stomach, makes you sleep soundly and creates a good appetite. As a blood purifier nothing can equal DRECO. It puts a stop to boils, eczema and other blood affections.

DRECO is being introduced to the people of Connellsville by the Connellsville Drug Company. Call on them. Let them tell you of the merits of this wonderful remedy. And they will honestly tell you whether or not they think DRECO will benefit you.

Tomorrow We Present The First of Summer's Fashions

THE SEASON for Tub Frocks begins with May. Soon you will see them sauntering down the Avenue, playing bridge, taking the leading role at all Summer functions—in greater numbers every day and doing their act, in every instance, with a crisp, refreshing air.

In newest styles and the more clever new materials, Tub Frocks will go on display tomorrow in our Premier Showing of Summer Fashions. You are cordially invited to drop in the Store and see them.

There are many voiles, many hand sewn and with threads hand drawn in designs that give these frocks an air of simple charm, unmatched by any others. In delicate shades; pink, orchid, apricot—you could choose nothing daintier for afternoon—nothing cooler, nothing so easily kept fresh looking by a simple pressing.

There are gingham, of course, the sunshine frocks with the prestige of many successful seasons behind them, but far too clever to rest on their reputation. Instead they are in clever new checked designs in new shades of yellow, green and pinkish lavender. Styles are different, too, many with the dressed-up look that organdie lends. They are neighborhood dresses, really, attractive enough for many afternoon as well as morning occasions.

Linens woven to let the breezes through, together with neat epingles are smart this season in ways that have never been seen before.

Every garment is notable for the careful workmanship and the distinction one associates with apparel that comes from Wright's. And special emphasis is laid upon the unusual assortments available in the out and extra sizes—48 to 53.

You are cordially invited to attend this Display at anytime you find convenient—here, tomorrow. On the Second Floor.

Two Go to Workhouse For Violation of Liquor Laws; Option of Parole

HOMERSETT, May 2.—Homer Sleek and W. H. Hone of Rockwood, charged with operating a motor vehicle with intoxicating and with transporting liquor, were sentenced to pay a fine of $100, the costs of prosecution and to undergo "two years" imprisonment in the Allegheny County Workhouse when they faced Judge John A. Herkey, but may be paroled in two months on good behavior. Both entered pleas of guilty when they were arraigned before Judge Herkey. Sleek and Hone were arrested yesterday by Chief of Police L. W. Shaw and Sheriff John W. Griffith. The men were placed under arrest while sleeping in an automobile in front of a church here. Both were intoxicated, it is said. Fashion's Fancies

NEW CAPES ARE OF HIP-LENGTH

Garment Attached to Shoulders of Frook; Same Material as of the Gown.

There seems to be no end to the pretty and distinguished touches which Paris elects to give to her clothes this spring, observes a Paris fashion writer in the New York Times.

Now each designer has something essential to say and each one is sending forth an original idea of some sort or other. Take, for instance, the froes where the plaited section appears at one side. That dress has the most subtle meaning behind its simple exterior. The chiffon plaits which appear at the side are only a peeping out of a whole dress of plaited chiffon that lies under the over-ness of kasha cloth. You can see how perfectly plain the top part is and how simple of construction its design. Well, it merely fits over the chiffon dress as a sort of extra covering for the days that are cool and he occasions that demand that sort of formality, in dress. On the other hand, when the warmer and more sultry days put in an appearance and you must appear upon the street in something that is plain, but still cool enough to allow you to move about, you can wear the chiffon frock with its underdress of silk and without any woolen covering.

Of all the utility dresses that have ever been created, this one by a French designer is decidedly the smartest and best. It is something which, in its original state and with many adaptations, will adapt itself to the needs of the American woman, so that she will find in it a real addition to her wardrobe. It will be an added boon for the rest of costumes bought with a limited income.

All White Silk Capes.

Another gown in this handsome collection is a dinner gown in all white silk crepe. It is embellished with a mixture of brilliant and silver sequins which extend over its entire surface, except at the front of the skirt where the fullness is bunched into thick folds turned toward the center, the skirt being raised at the waistline in front to introduce the smart waist movement. This drapery is of distinctly Egyptian origin, and the middle of rose-colored moire is crossed at intervals by bands of brilliant.

Black and white, this season, is a favorite combination, and Worth shows a dress of figured black and white tulle combined with plain black silk crepe. These figured crepes are also used by this designer to trim some of the smartest of blue tulle and serge frocks. Finely plaited deep cape collars of the printed silk and a touch of the same silk at the sleeves and vestee appear on this type of frock.

The more pretentious gowns or capes, especially those developed in black or dark blue silk marocain, are trimmed with printed crepes in cashmere colorings, while rich embroidery in silk or bead work are likewise carried out in cashmere bordered designs.

Quite charming is a Worth creation carried out in tortoise-colored moire. This frock is straight and slender though it is belted at a low waistline. The skirt is cut in the new three-tier apron effect, the lines of which round up to the waistline at the left side, where a smart buckle is added.

A black silk crepe frock drew admiring comments. It is sleeveless and is slashed down the entire sides from arm to hem, revealing a drop of vivid green crepe. Extending the length of the gown at each side of the front and back and over the shoulders is a six-inch band of gold lame embroidered in green. It is a simple but distinctive frock. With it is worn a cane of black crepe, a half-length model, also trimmed with green.

Capes in the Limelight.

Capes, in fact, are exceedingly prevalent. Most youthful of all are the hip-length models, attached to the shoulders of the frock, being fashioned from the same material that goes to make the gowns. They enhance the wearer's air of vivacious, expectant youth, hurrying with enthusiasm to meet whatever the day may bring forth. Worth supplements several of the more simple gowns with these charming half-length capes.

More pretentious are the three-quarter length or draped capes of crepe also matching the gown and likewise attached at the shoulders. Very graceful, too, are capes of fuller lines edged with two even more circular flounces curving upward at the front.

Separate coats are of two types, namely, those designed for sports wear developed in huge, checked, worsted, or plain, highly colored thick materials, and cut upon full-daring, raglan lines. There are still others made for essentially more formal occasions, which are, chiefly characterized by the wealth of all-over embroidery which decorates the entire surface of them or at least portions of them.

These new embroidered very often resemble bridling. In fact, some of the coats are really bridled and then tinted by hand, the color merging from, say, a dark tortoise or reindeer shade, through all of the autumn shades. Then there are many of neutral beige used for the upper part of this garment with the lower section left plain and in, perhaps, a darker tone. This latter trick is employed in many of the Brandt creations.

New Bustle Types Shown.

Rolande has bustle types that are most interesting in the way they are draped. They are not the old-fashioned extremely draped bustles, but the bows and the puffs that appear at the sides and the backs of many of the evening gowns certainly do look as though we were coming into an era of at least a partial revival of the bustle interests. We have done the bow at the front, at the side, front, and it is only natural that it should be weaving its way around to the side back and the center back in order to complete the circumference of the movement.

Black with touches of extremely bright color is one of Rolande's predictions. Many of his models have been developed in simple moire, alpaca and in plain and printed crepes. The stiffer silks are having a vogue that has long been denied them and the French designers are doing everything in their power to bring them back into prominence again.

Bernard announces the fact that suit skirts will be shorter than they have been in the past, and in the making of all his models of this character ter he carries out this standard. He has many paleots or short coats done over varying models and worn with either plain or plaited skirts.

Jenny emphasizes the gown with a supplementary jacket to match. We must still call it a suit for we lack a new name by which to distinguish it from its more tailored sister. This suit jacket of this collection ranges from short full-cut boleros to straight-line hip-length or finger-length coats. Some of them are bloused and others are of straight, tubular lines, clinging to the figure snugly at the hips.

Suit styles are so varied in Jenny's that they include the regulation Jenny tailor with a flat back and a slight flare at the sides of the peplum. Extreme models among them have jackets of knee length, a strikingly circular movement being apparent below the hipline.

Jabot Frill Features the Frocks for Spring

A movement which promises to be of great importance in spring frocks of silk, crepe or chiffon is that which introduces the jabot frill. It extends from neck to waist or from waist to hem, and is often repeated at the slit cuff.

From having comparatively small space in the smart frock, the frill has grown in length and importance. Sometimes it trails all the way down the back. Then again, it may start at the waistline, extend down the skirt, about the hem and up the back again to the shoulder.

In addition to this, there are double frill treatments. Two accented-plaited ones may extend down the side seam of a frock and when the wearer moves give a rippling, circular movement like the fins of a fish.

Charmingly Simple Is This Frock of Taffeta

This winsome little frock, a Paris model, is of gray taffeta, set off by Dutch collar and cuffs of white organdie and a neckline, skirt band and sleeve of black silk.

Broad-Brimmed Chapeau for the Larger Women

There are rumors in millinery circles to the effect that the broad hat is coming in again. We have clung so persistently to the little tightly-fitting affairs that there is no doubt we would welcome a change. Large hats are clumsy to get about in and hard to keep in perfect shape, but then they have the advantage of being picturesque and of forming frames for the faces under them that add all sorts of charm and good looks.

Broad-brimmed hats are best for the larger women. They conform to their bigness in build. Their lines fit in with the lines of the clothes that such women must wear, and the spreading shapes do everything that is pleasant by way of throwing the countenances and the figures underneath them into the proportions that they should assume.

If a woman has a large face the little, draped turban hat does not suit her at all. If she will wear a small hat it must be built to order to assume the measurements that will fit the head and properly top off the face. Now, with the hat of large brim it is different. That is just naturally adapted to larger proportions and lines. It can be posed upon the head and it will look right at once. There need be no fussing about it.

The broad-brimmed hats of this season are made of rather transparent stuffs. Often the straw braids are so flax in character that the hair and its crossed waves show through the crown almost as though there were no covering imposed. The crowns are round and simple, quite fitting the shaping of the head. Then the brims are flopping with wires only around their outer edges. The trimmings are flowers or ribbons or silk or velvet, or they are embroidered designs, but they are always put on with the utmost simplicity and arranged to show their own decorative effect.

Lattice Hat Crown Is Made by Home Milliner

The home milliner will find no difficulty in making the lattice crown which seems to be sponsored by the foremost designers. A piece of buckram is laid over the crown of the hat to ascertain the size and shape of the crown. Then the buckram is cut and laid flat. The entire surface is covered horizontally with bands of ribbon. Pieces of ribbon are drawn alternately over and under these bands, until the piece of buckram is covered lattice fashion. The ends of the ribbon are all securely tacked, and the covered buckram placed back over the crown of the hat. The ribbon ends are drawn tightly, and bound at the brim with a plain band of ribbon. Grosgrain and moire ribbons in the half-inch width are best adapted for this purpose.

There Is No Other Food Like Grape-Nuts

WHILE practically every man, woman and child in the English-speaking world knows Grape-Nuts as a delicious, nourishing and wholesome cereal, and while it is common knowledge that Grape-Nuts with milk or cream is a complete food, many housewives do not know of the appetizing and economical dishes that can be prepared with Grape-Nuts. It lends itself, we believe, to more uses than any other cereal. The convenience and economy of Grape-Nuts, and the flavor, zest and wholesomeness which it imparts to other food, make it invaluable in every home.

Frequently we receive interesting letters from women throughout the country, telling about the attractive dishes they make with Grape-Nuts—delicious puddings, salads, dressings for fowls, etc. No doubt there are thousands of women who are finding varied uses for Grape-Nuts in their home cooking, and even more thousands who will be glad to learn of those varied uses; for while we all cling to old favorite dishes, we also welcome and enjoy a change.

So that is the thought back of our offer of more than $7500.00 in cash for new ways of using Grape-Nuts. To those women who are already using Grape-Nuts in various ways, other than as a breakfast cereal or in the recipes given here, and to those women who would like to try their hand at developing some new way to use Grape-Nuts, we offer to buy at $50.00 each not less than 101 new Grape-Nuts Recipes. We plan to include these new Recipes in a beautifully illustrated cook book.

What Is Grape-Nuts?

Grape-Nuts is a highly nutritious food in the form of crisp, golden granules. It contains the full nutrient of wheat and barley, including vitamin-B and mineral elements required for building sturdy health. These elements are often lacking in the ordinary diet, chiefly through "over-refinement" in the preparation of food.

No other food is so thoroughly baked as Grape-Nuts. More than 20 hours are consumed in the baking process which makes Grape-Nuts easy to digest, and also develops a natural sweetness from the grains themselves.

The form and crispness of Grape-Nuts invite thorough mastication—a decided advantage because this not only provides proper exercise for the teeth, but makes for good digestion.

Every housewife in the land should take advantage of this extraordinary opportunity to earn the tidy sum of $50.00 by a little pleasant and educational effort in her own home. Also the fair and equal chance to secure one of the liberal awards to be made by Good Housekeeping Institute.

Moreover, there's the greater knowledge of the value of Grape-Nuts, not only as a delicious breakfast cereal, but in the preparation of a variety of appetizing dishes that add to the health and pleasure of the whole family.

Where you don't find Grape-Nuts you won't find people who don't like them.

MANY OTHERS ELIGIBLE

Congressman S. A. Kendall has secured pensions, increase of pensions and compensation for the following persons during the past month:

Mrs. Emma J. Minard, former widow of James Minard, Smithfield, $12 per month from October 7, 1918 to December 23, 1918, and $20 per month from December 23, 1918. She will receive approximately $150 back pension.

Frank B. Port, Conneltsville, $15 per month from October 3, 1922, and approximately $90 accrued pension.

Mrs. Annie L. Sorber, widow of Walter Sorber Barilla, $20 per month from January 23, 1923, and $75 back pension.

John A. Pope, Brownfield, $12 per month from July 5, 1921, and $255 accrued pension.

Mrs. Anna Trump, widow of Ernest Trump, Conneltsville, $20 per month from March 8, 1923. Payment of accrued pension due her husband to date of his death will also be made.

Lloyd Wagner, Stevestown, increase in $12 per month from February 27, 1923.

James S. Brown, Nowell, $12 per month from April 15, 1922, and back pension of $111.

Mrs. Melissa Dolan, widow of Allen Dolan, Smithfield, $30 per month from November 20, 1920, and back pension of $870.

Samuel Griffith, Roswell, increase to $12 per month from February 27, 1923.

John H. Buchanan, Uniontown, increase to $12 per month from April 27, 1922. He will receive $261 back pension.

Mrs. Isabella Paradi, widow of Tony Paradi, Somerset, $10 per month from April 12, 1923. Payment of accrued pension to date of her husband's death will also be made.

Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Kennell, Somerset, $15 each per month from March 20, 1921, compensation from Veterans' Bureau on account of death of son Ralph C. Kennell. They will receive about $700 back compensation.

"I feel sure there are hundreds of people in my district who are now entitled to pensions, but who have never made application for them. If such persons write me I will be glad to take up their cases and if possible secure pensions for them," Mr. Kendall says in a letter to The Courier.

NATIONAL HEAD OF G. A. R. WILL BE AT STATE ENCAMPMENT

Commander J. W. Willett to Arrive at Greensburg Morning June 1.

OTHER NOTABLES COMING

GREENSBURG, May 2.—James W. Willett, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic with headquarters at Des Moines, Ia., will be the guest of honor of the Department of Pennsylvania, in session in Greensburg the week of June 10.

In a letter of E. B. Sweeney, commander of the local post, the commander-in-chief says:

"I beg to advise you that my itinerary for the month of June, 1923, has agreed upon this date. I am booked to arrive in Greensburg, Pa., on the Pennsylvania Railroad train No. 26 at 6:30 A. M. Wednesday, June 13, unless we can get the through train from Pittsburgh to stop at Greensburg to discharge passengers at an earlier hour that day.

"I expect to remain until your encampment is adjourned without a day. It may be possible that I may want to stop in Greensburg a while on the 15th, which I can do if required as my next date is Peoria, Ill., June 19 and I must leave in time to reach Peoria the afternoon of June 18.

"We look forward with great anticipation for a successful and fraternal encampment at Greensburg, and hope that our expectations will be fully realized. We will try to do our part."

In addition to the commander-in-chief, Colonel McKelvey, editor of the National Tribune, the G. A. R. Journal, of Washington, and other prominent G. A. R. men and dignitaries have been invited.

General Chairman H. M. Zundel, through the past commander-in-chief, John L. Sauter, of the Sons of Veterans, of Pittsburgh, is arranging for the stopping of the through train.

PESKY BED-BUGS

(Pesky Devils Quicker) P. D. Q. is the new chemical that puts the everlasting to the pesky bedbugs, roaches, fleas, ants and cockroaches—impossible for the pesky devils to exist where P. D. Q. is used.

Recommendations of Hotels, Hospitals, Railroad Companies and other public institutions are a guarantee to the public that the safest, quickest and most economical way of eradicating the pesky devils is by the use of P. D. Q., as this chemical kills the eggs as well as the live ones, and will not irritate the clothing.

A few packages make a full outfit, enough to kill a million bedbugs, smother, flea or cockroach and also contain a patent scroll to get the eggs in the insecticide—this scroll is used as follows: P. D. Q. can also be purchased in sealed bottles, double strength liquid form.

Sold by J. C. Moore, druggist.

thus allowing Commander Willett, to come to Greensburg without stopping in Pittsburgh.

Local pastors have indicated that they will preach sermons appropriate to the G. A. R. on the opening Sunday, June 10. This has been customary in different conventions throughout the state in the past.

Major G. W. Friendly, the world's most famous drummer, one man, a whole drum corps, will be an attraction during the encampment. He plays from one to five drums at one time. Four snare drums and one bass drum are played without the use of traps or wires of any kind. He has knobs on both ends of his drum sticks and plays with all four ends at once. He gives imitations of various kinds. Major Friendly is a member of the National Association of Civil War Musicians.

Ninety-eight Out of Every Hundred Women who have tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for ailments peculiar to their sex, have been benefited by it. What a marvelous record for any medicine to hold! Over 50,000 women replied to a questionnaire recently sent out by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. of Lynn, Mass., 98 per cent of whom definitely stated that they had been benefited or restored to health by this old-fashioned root and herb medicine. This is a most wonderful record for efficiency, and should induce every woman who suffers from any ailment peculiar to her sex to give it a fair trial.—Advertisement.

"Where to Get You Next Suit"

Yes, you can buy a good looking "ready-to-wear" at about the same price we ask for a good looking, long wearing, right fitting, tailor made suit.

You can have a "ready-to-wear" altered to fit, may be.

Tinkering a "store" suit to make it fit is a mighty ticklish job—about as difficult as re-constructing a busted bird's-nest. At best, it usually results in only a temporary, makeshift fit. Carried beyond a certain point, alterations often upset the entire balance and fit of even a good "ready-to-wear" suit.

You will never feel quite satisfied with anything but a Spring suit that is cut and tailored precisely to conform to your individual contour and your taste.

The new suitings are in, 500 of them. We shall be glad to have you call and look them over. Come and make us prove all we have said or implied about real tailoring art skill.

OPENING OF BASEBALL SEASON IS POSTPONED TO SATURDAY, MAY 19

Circus and County School Field Meet Are Reasons for Change.

SMITHTON COMING FIRST

The baseball game between West Newton and Connelville, scheduled for the opening game of the season here on May 12, has been postponed until a later date and the Cokers in dependence will not take the field until a week later, opening May 19 with Smithton.

The postponement is a result of two things, the circus showing here Saturday and the first annual field meet of the Fayette County Intercollegiate Athletic League at the Dawson Fair grounds that afternoon.

The announcement has been made officially by J. J. Thompson, manager of the Cokers to get under way and it is a disappointment to have the date changed, but it is admitted it would hardly be advisable to have a circus and ball game on the same afternoon.

The team is all lined up now, and judging from "performances" of the men in past seasons they can deliver the goods. All are hitters and a number of changes which have been made will add considerable strength, is the belief.

Of Interest to Fans.

The Uniontown High School held its inter-class field meet yesterday and today there is considerable worry over the coming field meet at Dawson under the auspices of the county association. The athletes tell under records made last year and are far below what will be required to win in the May 12 event, it is believed. In the broad jump, the mark recorded yesterday was two feet less than necessary to gain a place at Dawson, it was said.

Jack Dempsey will defend his world's heavyweight championship against Tom Gibbons, of St. Paul, at Shelby, Montana, on July 4. It will be a 15 round fight to a decision.

The New York Giants won by a single run over the Dodgers yesterday, defeating Brooklyn, 4-3.

BASEBALL PLAYERS

Limbering Up Now With Joint-Ease

As for the game or practice Joint-Ease takes the kinks, lameness and soreness out of your throat, arm or quickly that you'll want to start all over again in a few hours.

It's great stuff—speedy and sure, and many stars are wise to it. Just two minutes' rubbing and this great, stainless Joint-Ease soaks right in through skin and flesh right to the ligaments and tendons and bones—exactly where the soreness is.

Ask for a tube of Joint-Ease and keep it rubbed up, at thousands of other ball players do. Costs but a rifle at Connelville Drug Co.—Advertisement.

Tennis Courts May Be In Shape by Thursday

According to announcement this morning by H. Blocker, groundskeeper for the Connelville Tennis Association, the courts will likely be in shape for play by either tomorrow evening or Friday night. The latter date will probably see the first tennis playing.

The season is later than usual this year because of the late spring, but work on the courts is now being rushed. The big roller is on the grounds ready for use and when the surface has been cleared it will be ready for rolling at once.

They also stopped to call on Mrs. Emily Patterson at Scottsdale, who has been ill for some time.

Girl Couldn't Stand

Clothes to Touch Her

"My father got me a bottle of May's Wonderful Remedy for stomach trouble and I am feeling so much better since taking it. My stomach was so painful I couldn't stand my clothes to touch me." It is a simple harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. A. A. Clarke and druggists everywhere.—Advertisement.

Taste is a matter of tobacco quality

We state it as our honest belief that the tobacco used in Chesterfield are of finer quality (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price.

BUSINESS: There is a varied and extensive field for calorized materials, such as in oil refining stills, steel manufacturing, stove and furnace manufacturing and glass manufacturing. The Calorizing Company processes materials at its own plant and also sublicenses other companies to use its process. The Company also has the exclusive right to market Calite, a high temperature resisting alloy manufactured by the General Electric Company.

EARNINGS: Earnings for the ensuing year are estimated at $100,000 from sublicense and the sale of Calite and at $200,000 from its manufacturing operations, a total of $300,000, equivalent to five times the annual dividend requirements on the Preference Stock.

THE LIGHT OF WESTERN STARS

A Romance

by Zane Grey

Illustrations by IRWIN MYERS

The horse neared the corral, disappeared into a lane, and then, breaking his gait again, thundered into the enclosure and pounded to a halt some twenty yards from where Stillwell waited for him.

One look at him at close range in the clear light of day was enough for Madeline to award him a blue ribbon over all horses, even the prize-winner, White Stockings. The cowboy's great steed was no little, slender-bodied Mustang. He was a charger, almost tremendous of build, with a black coat faintly mottled in gray, and it shone like polished glass in the sun. Evidently he had been carefully dressed down for this occasion, for there was no dust on him, nor a hair in his beautiful mane, nor a mark on his glossy hide.

"Come here, you son-of-a-gun," said Stillwell.

The horse dropped his head, snorted, and came obediently up. He was neither shy nor wild. Unfolding the stirrups from the pommel, Stillwell let them fall and began to search the saddle for something which he evidently expected to find. Presently from some where among the tangles he produced a folded bit of paper, and after scrutinizing it handed it to Al.

"Addressed to you, ain't it?" he said. "Two bits I know what's in it," he said.

Alfred unfolded the letter, read it, and then looked at Stillwell.

"Bill, you're a pretty good guesser. Gene's made for the border. He sent the horse by somebody, no names mentioned, and wants my sister to have him if she will accept."

"Any mention of Danny Manser?" asked the rancher.

"Not a word."

"That's bad. Gene'd know about Danny if anybody did. But he's a close-mouthed cuss. So he's sure hit for Mexico. Wonder if Danny's got, too? Well, there's two of the best cowboys I ever seen, good to—"

"I'm sorry."

With that he bowed his head and, grumbling to himself, went into the house. Alfred lifted the paper over the head of the horse and, leading him to Madeline, slipped the knot over her arm and placed the letter in her hand.

"Majesty, I'd accept the horse," he said.

"Stewart is only a cowboy now, and as tough as any I've known. But he comes of a good family. He was a college man and a gentleman once. He went to the law here, like so many fellows go. Like I nearly did. Then he had told me about his sister and mother. He cared a good deal for them. I think he has been a source of unhappiness to them. It was mostly when he was reminded of this in some way that he'd get drunk. I have always stuck to him, and I would do so yet if I had a chance. You read the letter, sister, and accept the horse."

In silence Madeline bent her gaze from her brother's face to the letter.

"Friend Al, I'm sending my horse down to you because I'm going away and haven't the nerve to take a horse where he'd get hurt or fall into strange hands."

"If you think it's all right, why, give him to your sister. It's my wish. But if you don't like the idea, Al, or if she won't have him, then he's for you. I'm hoping your sister will take him. She'll be good to him, and she can afford to take care of him. And, while I'm waiting to be played by a Greaser bullet, if I happen to have a picture in mind of how she'll look upon my horse, why, then, it's not going to make any difference to me. She couldn't ever know it."

"Take him you and me, Al, don't let her or the ride alone over Don Carlos' way. If I had time I could tell you something about that slick Greaser. And tell your sister, if there's ever any reason for her to run away from anybody when she's up on that man, just let her lean over and yell in his ear. She'll find herself riding the wind. So long."

"GIVE STEWART."

Madeline thoughtfully folded the letter and murmured, "How he must love his horse!"

"Well, I should say so," replied Alfred. "Flo will tell you. She's the only person Gene ever let ride that horse. Well, sister mine, how about it—will you accept the horse?"

"Assuredly. And very happy indeed am I to get him. Al, you said

I think, that Mr. Stewart named him after me—saw my nickname in the New York paper?"

"Yes."

"Well, I will not change his name. But, Al, how shall I ever climb up on him? He's taller than I am! What a giant of a horse! Oh, look at him—he's nosing my hand. I really believe he understood what I said. Al, did you ever see such a splendid head and such beautiful eyes? They are no large and dark and soft—and human. Oh, I am a little woman, for I am forgetting White Stockings."

"I'll gamble he'll make you forget any other horse," said Alfred. "You'll have to get on him from the porch."

Madeline led the horse to and fro, and was delighted with his gentleness. She discovered that he did not need to be led. He came at her call, followed her like a pet dog, rubbed his black muzzle against her. Sometimes, at the turn in their walk, he lifted his head and with ears forward looked up the trail by which he had come, and beyond the foothills. He was looking over the range. Someone was calling to him, perhaps, from beyond the mountains. Madeline liked him the better for that memory, and pitied the wayward cowboy who had parted with his only possession for very love of it.

At supper-time Madeline was unusually thoughtful. Later, when they assembled on the porch to watch the sunset, Stillwell's humorous comment on her mood, "You're a little woman, for I am forgetting White Stockings," which flashed up in her mind with lightning, and then by listening sympathetically she encouraged him to relate the troubles of a poor cowboy. They were many and long and interesting, and rather numbing to the life of her inspired idea.

"Al, Stillwell, could ranching here on a large scale, with up-to-date methods, be made well not profitable, except, but to go—be run without loss?" she asked, determined to kill her new-born idea at birth or else give it breath and hope of life.

"Well, I reckon it could," he replied, with a short laugh. "I'd sure be a money-maker. Why, with all my bad luck and poor equipment I've lived pretty well and paid my debts and haven't lost any money except the original outfit. I reckon there's snuck for good."

"Would you sell—if someone would pay your price?"

"Oh, Majesty, I'd jump at the chance. Yet somehow I'd hate to leave my horse. I'd just be fool enough to go sink the money in another ranch."

"Would Don Carlos and these other Mexicans sell?"

"They sure would. The Don has been after me for years, wantin' to sell that old rancho of his; an' these herders in the valley with their stray cattle, they'd fall dead at sight of a Mexican bull."

"Please tell me, Mr. Stillwell, exactly what you would do here if you had unlimited means?" went on Madeline.

"Good Lord!" exclaimed the rancher. "Well, Mrs. Majesty, it just makes my old heart warm up to think of such a thing. I dreamed a lot when I first come here. What would I do if I had unlimited money? Listen. I'd buy out Don Carlos and the Greasers. I'd give a job to every good cowboy in this country. I'd make them prosper as I prospered myself. I'd buy all the good horses on the range. I'd fence twenty thousand acres of the best grass. I'd drill for water in the valley. I'd pipe water down from the mountains. I'd dam up that draw out there. A mile-long dam from hill to hill would give me a big lake, an' he'd be an eye for beauty. I'd plant cottonwoods around it. I'd fill that lake full of fish. I'd put in the biggest field of alfalfa in the Southwest. I'd plant fruit-trees an' garden. I'd tour down them old corrals an' barns an' build houses to build new ones. I'd make this old rancho some comfortable an' fine. I'd put in grass an' flowers all around an' bring young pine trees down from the mountains. An' when all that was done I'd sit in my chair an' smoke an' watch the cattle straggle in for water an' straggle back into the valley. An' that rest sun out there wouldn't set on a happier man in the world than Bill Stillwell, last

S.S.S. keeps away Pimples

You will be compelled to admit that the results of S.S.S. are really amazing.

Did you ever know how big cities make the hydrant water fit for you to drink? That's what S. S. S. does to the blood in your own blood-pipes. It Intensify your Red-Blood-Cells. That's the sure way S. S. S. builds Blood-Cells!

It makes it fit to circulate. S. S. S. is acknowledged to be one of the most powerful, rapid and effective blood-purifiers known. You don't have to use some new fad treatment that is mere guesswork. You don't have to sneeze things on your face in a vain effort to get rid of eruptions. Eruptions come from blood impurities and a lack of rich blood-cells. S. S. S. builds new blood-cells. This is why S. S. S. rids you of your system's impurities which cause boils, pimples, blackheads, acne, blotches, eczema, tetter, rash. That's why S. S. S. has done such wonderful work in freeing thousands from the scourge of rheumatism. S. S. S. is also a remarkable flesh-builder. That's why underweight people can quickly build up their lost flesh, get back their normal weight, pink, plump cheeks, bright eyes, and "pop." S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores. The large size is more economical.

S.S.S. makes you feel like yourself again

of the old cattleman.

Madeline thanked the rancher, and then rather abruptly retired to her room, where she felt no restraint to hide the force of that wonderful idea, now full-grown and tenacious and alluring.

Upon the next day, late in the afternoon, she asked Alfred if it would be safe for her to ride out to the mesa, "If I go with you," he said.

"Dear fellow, I want to go alone," she replied.

"Ah," Alfred exclaimed, suddenly serious. He gave her just a quick glance, then turned away. "No need, I think it's safe. I'll make it safe by sitting here with my glass and keeping an eye on you. Be careful coming down the trail. Let the horse pick his way. That's all."

She rode Majesty across the wide flat, up the sloping trail, across the mesa with her. The wind of his speed blew her hair from its fastenings. When he thundered to a halt at the porch steps Madeline, breathless and flushed, alighted with the mass of her hair tumbling around her.

Alfred met her, and his exclamation, and Florence's eyes shining on her face, and Stillwell's speechless news made her self-conscious. Laughing, she tried to put up the mass of hair.

"My hat—and my comb—went to the wind. I thought—my hair would go, too. . . . There is the evening star. . . . I think I am very hungry."

And then she gave up trying to fasten up her hair, which fell again in a golden mass.

"Mr. Stillwell," she began, and paused, strangely aware of a hurried note, a deeper ring in her voice. "Mr. Stillwell, I want to buy your ranch—to engage you as my superintendent. I want to buy Don Carlos' ranch and other property to the extent, say, of fifty thousand acres. I want you to buy horses and cattle—in short, to make all those improvements which you said you had so long dreamed of. Then I have ideas of my own. In the development of which I must have your advice and Alfred's. I intend to better the condition of those poor Mexicans in the valley. I intend to make life a little more worth living for them and for the cowboys of this range. Tomorrow we shall talk it all over, plan all the business details."

Give five minutes thought to what you will get as a co-operative share owner in Hygeia Ice & Storage Co., Inc. Here is what you are absolutely sure of—ice delivered at your home or business place at a price away below the regular market price. The savings on ice alone amounts to more than ten per cent return on your investment. So if you got nothing but your ice discount your investment would be a money-maker for you right from the start.

Yet—in addition, you get 8 per cent dividend on stock that is preferred as to assets and dividends, is cumulative, non-callable and which participates in the common earnings to the extent of 25 per cent.

More than this you get common shares with voting power which controls the company and to which will go 75 per cent of the earnings after the preferred dividend is paid. You get part ownership in the real estate, plants and equipment and all other properties of a going concern which the American Appraisal Company says could not be replaced for less than $387,710.00.

Behind such assets and safeguards is a record of 30 years successful business; an earnings record for the last ten years of more than three millions of dollars and the same management of the new Hygeia as made a success of the old companies.

Briefly the owners of Hygeia share units can't lose under any circumstances and almost certainly will be big winners over a long period of years. If you haven't sent in your reservation—do it at once. But do it today for only five thousand of the common shares will be sold. And the people of this community certainly are showing that they know a fine investment when they see it.

If you need further information send in the coupon and we will mail you the booklet, "The Consolidation of Three Strong and Successful Dividend Payers."

79 MILLIONAIRES SUICIDES IN 1922

Report Shows 12,000 Persons
Killed Themselves in U. S.

ONE-THIRD OF NUMBER WOMEN

Seventy-nine millionaires were among the 12,000 persons who committed suicide in 1922. It was reported by Dr. Harry M. Warren, president of the Save-a-Life league. One-third of those who killed themselves were women, the oldest was a great-grandmother, one hundred years old, and the youngest a child of five.

In New York city 528 persons killed themselves, and an increasing number threw themselves in front of subway trains and jumped from high buildings. Some parts of the country reported waves of suicides, and one girls' suicide club was discovered. Those who took their lives—about the same number as in the preceding year—included wealthy, socially prominent and highly educated persons. There were 38 college students, 50 college professors and school teachers, 10 preachers and leaders of religious work, 52 judges and lawyers, 81 physicians, 100 presidents and heads of large business concerns, and a number of bank presidents, one of whom tried ten times to die before succeeding.

Due to Trivial Causes.

"As usual, many have put a low estimate upon the value of human life, having destroyed themselves for causes most trivial," said Doctor Warren. "A girl did it because she became depressed after bobbing her hair, a man because he was forced to quit playing golf. A woman killed herself after releasing two trains, a man because he feared the end of the world was at hand, another because of a row over a car. A designer was driven to suicide trying to guess the coming spring styles for women. One recently ended his life rather than face another cold winter. A young man killed himself for the fun of it. And another left a note saying she was taking poison just to get a new thrill."

"The suicide of children is a matter particularly distressing, and a most serious problem, to be carefully considered. In 1910 we reported 477 child suicides. In 1920 there were 797. In 1921 the number had increased to 958. In 1922 there were over 900, or nearly 8,000 in four years. The average age of boy suicides is sixteen, girls, fifteen. Most girls use poison, the boys use a gun. When five school girls in four days commit suicide it is time the public asked the reason why. The conclusion reached probably will be that they were temporarily disordered, or home conditions were intolerable, or that the school system was at fault. All three are the chief causes for child suicide."

"Child marriage is another serious cause. In 1910 there were 1,000 boys and 12,000 girls fifteen years of age in the United States listed as married, and nearly 500 of them were recorded as widowed or divorced. The married boys of sixteen numbered 3,222. Those of seventeen numbered 7,693, those of eighteen, 23,044. Girls who had married at sixteen numbered 41,620, at seventeen, 80,830, and those at eighteen, 150,046. Many of these children soon after marriage find that they have made a great mistake in their choice, quarrel, separate, get divorced and supply many of our suicides as well as homicides. Parents and teachers should educate children to avoid emotional excesses, to meet bravely the unpleasant things of life."

Prohibition to Blame, in Part.

"The inability to procure customary alcoholic drinks and narcotic drugs helped to swell the total of unfortunates who died by their own hands. Perhaps nothing has given more real sorrow and humiliation than the suicide of so many of our soldier boys. These shell-shocked and disabled soldiers have given way to hopeless despair, more than 1,000 having already committed suicide. This league has given special attention to such cases, and is proud of having saved not a few from their greatest battle."

"Dr. Thomas W. Salmon says that 'most suicides are preventable.' The league has proved that people tempted to end their lives will first come and talk it over, and that in most cases they can be saved. We have heard much about our duty to society and country, but we have forgotten our duty to those who at our very doors ended their lives for the lack of a helping hand when passing through life's greatest crisis. We do not need investigators. The facts are well known. Suicide causes fill our papers and usually without attracting the slightest attention. We need instant action."

LAW BOOK IS 350 YEARS OLD

It Told of the Laws in Force in Time of King Henry VIII.

In neat rows in a little bookcase on the fourth floor of the Lucas county courthouse at Toledo, O., are some of the oldest law books in the United States. One of them is nearly 350 years of age, but all are well preserved.

Probably the most interesting volume in the collection was printed in 1577. Its title page reads: "In this volume are contained the statutes made and established from the time of Henry the Third, unto the first years of the reign of Our Most Gracious and Victorious Sovereign Lord, King Henry the VIII."

PATRONIZE THOSE WHO ADVERTISE!

This is the seventh of a series of advertisements by The Atlantic Refining Company on the TRUTH ABOUT GASOLINE.

Taxes and Gasoline

AS you pay an extra nickel or dime "for the State" when purchasing a filling of gasoline, you may ask, "Why is gasoline taxed?" The elementary answer is, "To raise public revenue."

A more interesting question is, "Why does the State single out gasoline as a special source of taxation?" Not to discourage its use. Not because it is considered a "luxury"—for half the gasoline consumed is used in industry and commerce.

Gasoline is taxed because it is a convenient source of revenue. It is taxed because it is so cheap, both as a motive power and a commodity, that you buy it regardless of this surcharge.

Gasoline is the only product on which a direct sales tax is levied by the State of Pennsylvania. It is taxed one cent a gallon, or at the rate of about 4% of your gasoline money. The revenue collected from you in Pennsylvania during the year 1922 amounted to $2,883,787.79.

This one-cent State tax alone is greater than The Atlantic Refining Company's margin of profit per gallon on its products. They are sold at a profit of less than one cent a gallon.

In addition to the State sales tax, which you pay direct whenever you purchase gasoline, a portion of your gasoline money also goes into the treasury of the United States—indirectly, of course, but nevertheless figuring in the price you pay for gasoline. In ten and one-half years (from January, 1912) the Federal taxes paid by The Atlantic Refining Company amounted to some $20,459,000.

In spite of taxes, high labor, other increased manufacturing costs and tremendous demand, gasoline is still comparatively cheaper than ever—thanks to those business incentives that always accompany competitive effort and unhampered private ownership and management.

Persons you meet casually think you can afford it. Your friends know you can. So everybody expects you to carry a handsome up-to-date watch. It seems there is something wrong somewhere, if you don't, for a fine watch costs no more than a good suit of clothes.

Styles in men's watches have changed radically in the last few years. They are thinner, handsomer, more convenient. Come look them over.
